Sacrum commercium beati Francisci cum domina paupertate. Le mistiche nozze ... 1901. (Card 3)

The first time by F. Fantini and E. Brindl, Florenz, 1889. The present edition, a reprint of the first, is based upon a careful collation of the printed text with the original ms. and the Magliabechian ms. of the Biblioteca nazionale at Florence, in which the translation appears under title "Commercium Paupertatis." A different Italian tr. with title "Le nozze di Santo Francesco con Madonna la Povertà" (codex B15), Biblioteca Vaticana, Rome) was pub., together with the text, by P. E. Edmond d'Alençon, Rome, 1903.

The authorship of the original, commonly ascribed to Jeanne Parmentis, is much disputed.

St. Paul (St. Anthony Park) Seminary of the United Norwegian Lutheran church.

When the various Norwegian branches of the Lutheran church united in 1890 to form the United Norwegian Lutheran church in America, this church took over Augsburg seminary, Minneapolis. In 1891 the church removed its divinity school from the Augsburg building and in 1892 established a new seminary called Seminary of the United Norwegian Lutheran church (or, specifically, United church seminary); this was removed to St. Paul in 1902. In 1907 it united with Luther seminary, Hamilton, St. Paul, and Red Wing seminary (called also Hauge's seminary) Red Wing, Minn., to form Luther theological seminary, St. Paul.
